Ten Major Groups Denounce Peace Appeal

Ten major Jewish organizations, members of the National Community Relations Council, denounced in New York the Communist-endorsed Stockholm Peace Appeal. In a statement issued by the Council, the organizations termed the Appeal "a despicable divide-and-conquer tactic," directed specifically to Jewish groups. It urged all who want to serve the cause of world peace and the preservation of freedom, to reject, with calm and common-sense, the Stockholm Peace Appeal.

The statement said "those who assist the unscrupulous Communist aggressors in advancing this instrument of their destructive purpose make use of every device of confusion and distortion."

The organizations that signed the statement denouncing and urging rejection of the Appeal were: The American Jewish Committee; The American Jewish Congress; The Anti-Defamation League; The Association of Jewish Chaplains in the Armed Forces; Bnai Brith; The Jewish Labor Committee; Jewish War Veterans of U.S.A.; The National Council of Jewish Women; the Union of American Hebrew Congregations and the National Community Relations Advisory Council.

The Council emphasized that the Toscanini To Conduct Israeli Orchestra In U.S.

Dr. Serge Koussevitsky, former director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, announced that Arturo Toscanini would conduct the January 8 concert of the Israeli Symphony Orchestra in New York City during the orchestra's American tour next winter.

The Israeli Symphony will open its tour on January 7 in Washington under Dr. Koussevitsky's direction and will then move to New York. The 100-member orchestra is scheduled to give sixty concerts in America, twenty under Dr. Koussevitsky's direction and the rest under the leadership of Leonard Bernstein and Eleazar de Carvalho.

Mr. Toscanini, Dr. Koussevitsky noted, conducted the orchestra's first concerts in December, 1936. Dr. Koussevitsky himself, who led the orchestra in sixteen concerts in Israel last spring, will return there in September to conduct the orchestra at twelve concerts.

With the closing of the Berkshire Music Center in Tanglewood, Dr. Koussevitsky said that he and his wife would go to California, where he will be guest conductor at four concerts in the Hollywood Bowl. He plans to go from there to Israel and then return to America to be guest conductor of the Boston Symphony

DEMAND ABSENTEE BALLOT RIGHT ON HOLY DAY

Civic and religious leaders have demanded a special session of the Colorado Legislature to amend existing laws in order that 25,000 members of the Jewish faith may vote by absentee ballot in the state primary elections September 12.

The primary falls on Rosh Hashonah, the Jewish New Year. Under religious law, Jews are prevented from engaging in any secular activity until the completion of the celebration at sundown.

Colorado's Attorney General recently ruled that Jewish voters may cast their ballots if they are standing in line at the voting places by 7 p.m. The Attorney General said the Jewish holiday would end at 6:30 p.m. with the appearance of the first star, thus giving Jewish voters a half-hour leeway.

Premier Tells "Whole Truth": Need Is For One Billion By 1953

Premier David Ben-Gurion called on Jews in the United States and other countries to raise $1,000,000,000 by 1953 to cover two-thirds of the cost of rescuing Jews from the Middle East and Eastern Europe, while they still were free to move to Israel. He said that Israel would assure one-third of the cost.

Addressing 1,500 delegates at the national convention of Mapai, the country's largest party, at Tel Aviv, Israel, the Premier said:

"During the appeal two years ago, the American Jews were told that it would be the last request for funds. They were told the same thing last year, and so naturally, they stopped believing. We must tell them the whole truth."

Mr. Ben Gurion recalled that the Government that took office in March, 1949, had set a goal of doubling the population in four years, reports the New York Times.

The population target for 1953 is 1,600,000. With 300,000 immigrants having entered in the last eighteen months, the immigration rate thus is on schedule. The Premier said that this rate would be equivalent to an annual immigration of 40,000,000 persons to the United States.

Israel needs $1,500,000,000 by 1953 to become self-sufficient in food by expanding agricultural production; to empty immigrant camps, where 8,000 people now are living, and to house the new immigrants that are expected in that period; for investments in industry and trade; construction and other projects designed to absorb the immigrants.

The Premier explained that funds for industrial and agricultural development and other capital investments were being raised by national loans. He said that Israel was setting an example by circulating internally a $280,000,000 compulsory loan. He proposed a loan of $500,000,000 in the

Pharmacist Was Cosmetics Pioneer

Myram Picker, of 101 Ellwood Avenue, Mount Vernon, N. Y., who pioneered in the manufacture of five and ten cent store cosmetics and introduced women's leg makeup during the World War II hosiery

Mr. Picker was chairman of the board of Gala of London, Ltd., Myram Picker, Ltd. and Henry C. Miner, Ltd., cosmetics manufacturers, all of London, and was a founder and former president of the Crystal Chemical Company, New York, originators of Z. B. T., baby talcum powder, and other drug and cosmetic products. He also was founder and former president of Trece Laboratories, New York, cosmetics manufacturers.

Born in Odessa, Russia, Mr. Picker went to the United States fifty-two years ago. He studied pharmacy in Russia and in America. It was through Miner's, Inc., of New York, of which he was president, that he introduced leg makeup to cope with the shortage of women's stockings. He also began the production and sale of ten cent powders, lipstick and other low priced cosmetics in the United States and Canada.

He was a Mason, and an Elk and a member of the Woodmen of the World.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Edna Krystal Picker; a son, Stanley H., with whom he was living in London when striken; two daughters, Mrs. Rhoda Goldstone of Eastchester, and Mrs. Alice Julius of Mount Vernon; and a brother, James of Larchmont.

Four-Ship Line Pays First Dividend

The Israel-America Line has declared its first dividend since it was formed eighteen months ago.

The six per cent dividend for the year 1949-50 was announced by the American-Israeli Shipping Company, which represents the Israeli-flag service in New York. The report also said that the line had saved $2,000,000 to $2,500,000 for Israel by being able to trans-

Mexico Eases Entry Of Refugees

Joining the list of western nations that have liberalized immigration quotas to provide haven for the homeless refugees of World War II, Mexico has dropped all barriers to citizens of the Philippine Republic. The regulations, as printed in the Diario Oficial of Mexico City, are similar to those of the United States, Spain and all American countries.

Turning to Europe's displaced persons the Mexican Government has announced quotas of 1,000 persons from Belgium, Denmark, France, the United Kingdom, Holland, Italy, Norway, Portugal, Sweden, Switzerland and Soviet Russia.

The regulations also specify that asylum may be given to foreigners who are refugees because their political or religious views may result in persecution or endanger life and liberty. Political refugees will be admitted only if they come directly from the country in which the persecution took pace.

It is said further that applicants for admission must declare that they have no racial prejudices. Preference will be given to single

IN MEMORIAM

BARSKY: In loving memory of my dear husband, Harry, who passed away August 10, 1947.

I tended you with best of care,
with no outward show;
I did my duty to the last, 'til
I could do no more.
They say: Time heals all sorrow, helps us to forget;
But Time so far has only proved how much I miss you yet.
I know not when my call will come,
I care much less how soon it be;
I only ask that I may walk,
The walk that leads to thee.
Your rest is calm and peaceful,
the lonely heart is mine.
Friends are friends when they are true;
Nowhere blooms a friend like you.

Ever remembered by his wife, Betty.

WAS HEAD OF INSTITUTE FOR 36 YEARS

Harry Sacket, a founder and for the last thirty-six years superintendent of the East Side Hebrew Institute, 295 East Eighth Street, New York, died in his home, 4701 Twelfth Avenue, Brooklyn, after a two-month illness. He was 73 years old. Born in Russia, Mr. Sacket came to New York in his youth. He was engaged in educational and philanthropic work before he joined the Institute, which combines a Jewish school, nursery kindergarten, synagogue and center. He did much for needy children and often had given advice to others who established day schools. Surviving are two sons, Oscar Sacket of Brooklyn and Milton of Florida; a daughter, Mrs. Rose Lipshitz of Brooklyn; a brother, Morris Sacket; and a sister, Mrs. Rachel Rubin, of the Bronx.

Artificial respiration has been known to be successful on an apparently drowned person who had been under water for as long as half an hour. Nine hundred deaths in a single year is a tragic fact because drowning is unnecessary. Some of these deaths might have been prevented if people generally had known what to do when a person appeared to be drowned. Artificial respiration should be started immediately the apparently drowned person is taken from the water. It should be kept up continuously for a minimum of four hours unless the victim had recovered consciousness or rigor mortis had set in. Reports appear in the newspapers to the effect that artificial respiration has been discontinued in 20 minutes or half an hour in cases in which resuscitation may have been possible. This applies to both drowning and electrical shock. It is important that the air passages are clear and the tongue held out during artificial respiration.

Canadians And Americans Are Pioneers At Gesher Haziv

BY RALPH CHAPMAN, IN THE NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE

A youngster born and raised in the Bronx is head man of this communal settlement in northwestern Israel on the coast of the Mediterranean. Twenty-two-year-old Joe Goell quit City College, where he was majoring in bio-chemistry, to come here and work on the land.

"Our street address in New York doesn't make any difference," he said, running his hand through his curly red hair. "My parents are in Israel now so there's no one in the States who cares what I'm doing or where I am."

Actually, there is no village chief or similar official. This is a kibbutz where every member, man or woman, has an equal voice on every subject from what crops to plant to who gets to go to Nahariya (the nearest town) for the evening and who stays home. But Joe is secretary at the moment and acts as spokesman for the ninety Americans and Canadians, thirty native-born Israelis and ten Persians who make up the settlement. Leading the "guided tour" of Gesher Haziv for tourists and wandering newspaper men is only one of his multifarious duties.

We stood on a knoll near the chicken house. Before us lay a cluster of small wooden buildings, tents and small stone structures erected when this was a British Army post during the days of the mandate. A mid-day sun beat through the scanty shade of the small tree under which we had sought shelter, loose sand sifted into our shoes. Joe removed his horn-rimmed glasses and stared out over the settlement's 900-acre tract which extends in a wide semi-circle to the foothills.

"Why did I come here?" he repeated. "I guess it sounds sort of idealistic in these days, but all of us came here because we wanted to have a part in building a new, free country. In the first place, most of us were brought up with the idea of Zionism. Then there's the idea of being pioneers which appeals to young folks all over. You have to remember that there has been fighting here; it's like the days of American pioneers."

But what about that career in bio-chemistry? What about making a name for himself in the world?

"You can only eat so much, you can only have so soft a bed to sleep in," Joe said. He grinned. "Besides, I could get to be President here, you know, even if there aren't any cherry trees to cut down."

Charles Boxenbaum, twenty-one, formerly of Belle Harbor, L. I., lolled under another tree near the central dining hall for all the world as if this barren hilltop were a college campus. He knows about the latter, too. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago with a major in philosophy.

"I just felt that there is a need here for pioneers and I wanted to be one," he explained, "but I like the outdoor life anyway and I like farming."

He used to work in the seventy-acre vegetable garden but is now on building construction because the settlement is expanding rapidly and is employing every available man on this work. He is one of about thirty unmarried men and women here and so occupies one and a half rooms in a one-story building with two other men. Gesher Haziv is going to take in some orphaned immigrant children, however, who will be housed in these quarters. The single men will go back to the tents they lived in when the settlement was first founded.

"I hope it's not as cold and snowy as last winter," Charles remarked, but he did not seem much concerned.

This communal settlement was founded January 27, 1949, by about 100 Americans and Canadians who belonged to a youth movement known as Habonim (the Builders). They came here after periods of training both at home and in Israel. Between twenty-five and thirty of the original members could not take it and returned home, but their places have been taken by others. The average age of the present 130 adults is twenty-three. Most of the "older" men are former G.I.s. There are also fifty-one children, ranging from a few days to five years old. A lone eight-year-old is being sent to school in Nahariya because he has no one to play with here and was becoming something of a problem.

The thirty "sabras," as old-time Israelis are called, were welcomed here because of their knowledge of Hebrew and because they have experience in working the land of this new state. The Persians (Iranians) simply asked for admission and were taken in. Some kibbutzim limit their membership but Gesher Haziv has adopted an expansion policy and is ready to accept newcomers from any part of the world.

At the end of its first year and a half of existence the settlement has about two-thirds of its acreage under cultivation. Besides the vegetable garden, 300 acres have been sown to cereals and thirty-five grow folder. There is a 100-acre orange grove and an olive orchard of similar size. Both were here before the present group arrived but had not been kept up. The olive orchard had been planted with an eye to cheap Arab hand-labor. It cannot be worked by mechanical means and this is a problem of major importance which has still to be solved.

The kibbutz has thirteen milk cows, twenty-eight heifers, 300 chickens and four mules. There is a variety of automotive equipment, including a jeep.

Experiments are being conducted on the possibility of raising man-

QUICK SPONGE CAKE

three eggs — juice of one whole lemon
one cup cake flour — one cup sugar
one teaspoon baking powder

Beat whole eggs until light and fluffy. Continue beating while gradually adding sugar and the juice of the lemon. Add flour, which has been sifted with the baking powder, and mix in well. Pour into eight-inch, ungreased ring pan and bake in a 325-degree oven until slightly brown on the top, about a half hour. May be served plain or with berries and cream.

Mrs. J. Clare,
4374 Melrose Avenue, Montreal.

CARROT NUGAT

one-quarter teaspoon ground ginger — one-half cup almonds
one pound granulated sugar
one pound carrots

Boil one pound of well-washed carrots with the skin until tender, in enough water to cover the carrots; then skin and grate when cool. To carrots, add one pound of sugar; boil over a slow fire for about three hours. Stir often. Add the ginger and boil for an additional fifteen minutes. Just before removing from the fire add the almonds, blanched and chopped, mix well, and sprinkle lightly with sugar. Spread mixture on a board, and when cool, cut into squares, or roll into balls.

It was 1938. Off Boston, Mass., two sleek fishing schooners charged neck-and-neck through the gust-tossed Atlantic. Canada's famous Bluenose and her arch-rival, the Gertrude L. Thebaud of Gloucester, were sailing the fifth and final heat of the International Fishermen's Trophy Race.

The older Bluenose, four-time trophy winner, took a narrow lead early in the 35½-mile course. Crowding sail, the Gloucestermen tried to close the gap. But the Bluenose stayed in front . . . to win her fifth and last trophy by 2 minutes, 30 seconds.

Close teamwork has won many firsts for Canadian sportsmen. And teamwork, with sportsmanship, helps you, too—in work and play. Together they keep your scope for opportunity in Canada . . . unlimited.

Frank Garber, 11 Torlton Road, Toronto, is chairman, for the second consecutive year, of Zone P, in the Community Chest Drive of Greater Toronto. Mrs. Samuel Sales is vice-chairman, the position held last year, when the zone was responsible for contributing over $30,000 to the Community Chest of Greater Toronto, and was one of the few zones which succeeded in covering more prospects last year than in the previous year. This area is bounded by College and Simcoe Streets; and Spadina Avenue. Eleven team captains, out of a necessary seventeen, who have been appointed are: Benjamin Rez, Jack Weckster; Irving Ross, of Toronto Lodge, Bnai Brith; Neil Morrison, Wilton Leader, J. McGirr; Mrs. Seymour Kazman, of Upper Canada Chapter, Bnai Brith Women; Mrs. Morris Block, of Toronto Chapter Number 434, Bnai Brith Women; Mrs. Norman Tepperman, of Beth Sholom Synagogue Sisterhood; Bernard Gottlieb, Sidney Folbish, of Upper Canada Lodge, Bnai Brith. Headquarters are at the offices of the Toronto Cloak Manufacturers Association, 334 Adelaide Street West. The Community Chest Campaign supports sixty-six Red Feather services, including many Jewish social service agencies, and will be held from Monday, October 16, to Tuesday, November 7.

gos and avocados. Two agricultural school graduates, Mrs. Evelyn Weiner, formerly of New York, and Mrs. Pearl Grader, formerly of Winnipeg, are in charge of this work. Mrs. Weiner is the wife of Dr. Matt Weiner, "circuit-riding" dentist, who takes care of the teeth of this settlement and half a dozen others in the vicinity. Neither is available at the moment. Dr. Weiner is off somewhere pulling teeth; Mrs. Weiner had a baby two days ago. It was a girl.

Sole industrial project here so far is a wood-working factory, which turns out door and window frames. Building expansion in Israel has created a great demand for these, but a shortage of wood has hampered growth of the factory so far.

As if natural obstacles to development were not enough, Gesher Haziv has had an additional burden to bear during the last two months. Five of the children contracted infantile paralysis. (The Ministry of Health reported 800 cases throughout the nation as of July 4. This is ten times the normal annual average.) Then, thirty members came down with jaundice, attributed by doctors to impurities in the water supply. Both children and adults have recovered and that particular worry has been lifted for the time being, at least.

Modern pioneers know that good health is all-important in the establishment of a settlement. They are more realistic than one who, coming to Palestine at the turn of the century, wrote in effect:

"I awoke this morning with heavy heart. I realized that I was not one of the group; I had not had malaria. Later, I was suddenly seized with violent chills and other symptoms of the disease. Tonight I am happy."

GREEN is a popular colour in all Jewish neighbourhoods!

Light green, bright green is a favourite shade on the shelves of Canadian delicatessens and grocery stores in Jewish sections from coast to coast. The light green, bright green labels of Heinz Oven-Baked Beans are in evidence in big cities, small towns, tiny villages . . . wherever Jewish women shop for food.

For Heinz Oven-Baked Beans are the most popular Pareve product of their kind. Vegetarian . . . quick-as-a-flash-to-fix, they are an all-purpose economy food Heinz chefs use only choice, carefully culled beans to prepare this "mechaya" . . . bake them in the old-fashioned authentic way till they are mellow and nut-like in flavour . . . steep them in the tastiest tomato sauce imaginable. No wonder they are best-sellers in all Jewish sections.

AUGUST 25, 1950 VOL. XXXII, No. 47

Woman Benefactor Praised For Quick Wit

Mrs. Charles S. Guggenheimer worked a highly effective spell that brought back some 18,000 persons at the Lewisohn Stadium, in New York, when a sudden downpour as a Rodgers and Hammerstein program was about to begin caused a scramble for the exits and shelter. The energetic chairman of the Stadium Concerts, known affectionately to Stadium-goers as "Minnie," has had more than one occasion to beseech her audience for support this season in connection with the drive for contributions that became urgent with the dire effect of the weather on attendance.

The large box-office receipts of this final concert of the season were counted on to relieve a deficit that is expected to be unusually heavy. A postponement would not only have meant the extra expense but normally any postponement suffers, since many persons have made other plans for the next night, and others are unaware the event is taking place. Mrs. Guggenheimer's success with Stadium audiences stems from a certain act of naivete and slips of tongue that are, we suspect, as calculated as the devices of the most expert comedian. She told the milling crowd to go back and sit down, that the weather man had told her the rain would be over in a few minutes, and that if they got wet "where you sit" it would not matter. Her predictions turned out to be correct, and after order had been restored, with the crowd returned to their places, the rain stopped and the stars peered out between separating clouds.

Oscar Hammerstein 2d, speaking during the intermission, said he was "used to giving shows to many people, but the people tonight have shown me the best show I have ever seen." He called his listeners the "best 20,000 sports I know," and he called Mrs. Guggenheimer "the best sport of all," following this tribute by embracing her. He remarked he had never seen so many people going out and coming back again at the persuasion of one person. Mr. Hammerstein conveyed the regrets of Richard Rodgers, who could not be present owing to illness.

fraudulence of the appeal directed to Jews is "transparent." It pointed out that many of the endorsements of the Appeal are of pro-Communist origin or from innocents who have been duped.

It was also pointed out by the Council that the appeal has in instances provoked violence among groups. "American democracy can and must be preserved not by abrogating the cherished principles of civil liberties, but by confident reliance upon lawful processes and the appropriate governmental agencies," the statement continued.

"By circulating the Stockholm Appeal, the Communists are attempting to provoke the American people to violence, threat of violence, mob action and disruptive disturbances. We urge the American people to avoid this trap."

In March, Dr. Koussevitsky said, he will go to Belgium to preside at the Annual Violinists' Competition, at the invitation of Dowager Queen Elisabeth. The seventy-six-year-old conductor said he will make more than fifty concert appearances in America and in Europe during the next ten months.

FOUR-SHIP LINE

ing to Raphael Recanati, general manager in New York of Israel-America and American-Israeli. When imports rise further, he added, the line will seek a fifth vessel to add to the four-ship fleet now plying between Israel and the United States.

Mr. Recanati said that Israeli maritime interests are concentrating on getting new ships rather than using the old tonnage the nation was forced to obtain in the past. Two specially built fruit carriers are being constructed in Dutch yards for the Zim Israel Navigation Company. The company has been carrying an ever-increasing quantity of Israeli fruit to Scandinavia, Great Britain and North Europe, according to the New York Times.

An Israeli shipyard corporation recently completed its first major job, refitting and refurbishing the passenger ship Artza, one of three Israeli ships with accommodations for tourists, Mr. Recanati said. A total of $280,000 was saved for the economy, since this was the difference it would have cost to do the overhauling abroad. The vessels run from Israel to Naples, Genoa and Marseilles.

Although port operations in Haifa and Tel Aviv are going much more smoothly, Mr. Recanati said that imports had risen and that port congestion was still a problem. Warehousing and lighterage are primary targets.

Mr. Recanati said that Israelis are taking the berths formerly held by foreign seamen. Training programs are under way and more and more Israeli youths are displaying an interest in the sea. Several ships engaged in foreign trade now have Israeli captains, although 10 or 15 per cent of the crews of those in the American trade are foreign, mostly Americans.

Cigarettes, matches and campfires can be enemies of the forest.

MAKE SURE YOUR FIRE IS OUT

Last year forest fires destroyed a volume of timber equal to half the annual consumption of our pulp and paper industry! Nearly three million acres were destroyed by 7082 fires. One out of three of these fires was caused by careless campers and smokers. Only 19% were started by the natural cause—lightning.

1. TOSS CIGARETTE ENDS IN THE WATER.
2. BREAK MATCHES IN TWO BEFORE THROWING THEM AWAY.
3. BUILD CAMPFIRES NEAR THE WATER.
4. MAKE SURE YOUR FIRE IS OUT before leaving it unattended.
5. CAREFULLY INSPECT AREA around the campfire to make sure that no sparks have started smouldering near-by.
